

WAYFINDER CLOSES FINANCING, SECURES LAND FOR WORLD-CLASS RESIN-COATED PROPPANT PLANT AND TRANSLOADING FACILITY

Prime location to host the “One Stop Prop Shop” facility

Calgary (June 7, 2016) – Wayfinder Corp. (“Wayfinder”) today announced the signing of a definitive agreement to acquire the rights, titles and interests in land bordering the Obed Transloading Facility from Athabasca Minerals Inc. The Obed Facility, owned by Westmoreland Coal, has also been acquired by Wayfinder in a separate agreement. In aggregate, land of approximately 225 acres has been secured and is located approximately 10 kilometres east of Hinton, Alberta. The land features approximately 8 kilometers of rail track directly on the CN main line and adjacent to the Yellowhead Highway. The property also includes exclusive access to a bridge-crossing over the Athabasca River, which provides a significant shortcut to many northern wellhead locations.

Wayfinder plans to develop the land by constructing, operating and maintaining a best-in-class resin-coated proppant manufacturing plant and transloading facility. The full-service, large-storage format, fast-loading transload facility will be capable of moving up to 1,000,000 MT annually, with silo storage capacity of 26,000 MT. Wayfinder’s “One Stop Prop Shop” is expected to be operational towards the end of 2017. Proppants produced at the facility will be tailored to improve hydrocarbon production in the basin and distributed through the onsite transload facility. Upon completion, the facility will be the second in Western Canada with the ability to launch or land unit train traffic for frac sand.

Wayfinder has also recently closed an equity financing commitment from ARC Financial with funding provided by ARC Energy Fund 8. The capital raised is expected to be sufficient to complete the construction and commissioning of the resin-coating plant and transload facility.

“Closing the financing and securing the land is the first step toward our mission of building a world-class proppant manufacturing and transloading facility,” said Michael Burnyeat, CFO of Wayfinder. “Wayfinder is focused on improving the economics and productivity of oil and gas wells in the Western Canadian Sedimentary Basin and this facility is the catalyst for making that goal a reality.”
